

Tracee-lee Maginnity is a registered Occupational therapist. Originally trained in New Zealand she initially became involved in the industry when she started working for Seating To Go a complex postural and mobility assessment service. Tracee-lee was a prescribing therapist completing assessment and trials for clients with disability and post injury. Moving to Australia Tracee-lee worked for Northcott Equipment Services, a seating clinic specialising in Ottobock moulded seating before working for Ottobock as a business development manager.

Getting back to a more hands on role, Tracee-lee then ran the custom seating division for a supply company before taking on her current role as a Clinical Consultant and Clinical Educator for Astris lifecare. She has also worked for the past 4 years at NSWs AT Australia (formally ILC NSW) as a senior OT and developing and facilitating training.

Tracee-lee is passionate about mobility seating and education. She has presented at ARATA on multiple occasions and runs regular educational programs through out NSW. Feedback indicates she is a dynamic and engaging presenter who is able to draw on clinical experiences and relate well to multiple situations.
